

My name is Kevin Bradley; I am proud to be a Chiropractic Physician and a Certified Chiropractic Sports Physician. These two credentials represent more to me than letters behind my name, these credentials represent effort, knowledge, sacrifice and experience. I never take these responsibilities lightly. I am a 1994 graduate of Logan College of Chiropractic and I earned my CCSP in 1999 through Logan. I am married to my wife Elizabeth for 24 years and we have two fantastic children, ages 18 and 21. I practice in Eufaula, Oklahoma but am originally from Southern Illinois. I am interested in becoming a member of the ACBSP Board of Directors for a few simple reasons. First and foremost, I want to be an active voice and participant and I want to do my part to assure all of our members that the ACBSP will continue to flourish and grow. I think it is crucial to have leaders in all of our Chiropractic organizations that are actively practicing chiropractic in successful practices from diverse geographic areas around the U.S. I am a firm believer that there is no substitute for experience. Second, to ensure that our ACBSP certifications are not lost in a rapidly changing health care environment, we need to continue a great tradition of having experienced sports chiropractors on our Board of Directors. For me, this means our Board of Directors is made-up of Doctors of Chiropractic that use our skill set as chiropractic sports physicians out in the trenches, actively working front line athletic events at every level and taking care of athletes. Finally, I want to ensure that our unique ACBSP skill set is nurtured and that the ACBSP continues to be brought to the attention of the general public and to other health care professionals. I have 25 years of clinical experience and have had the honor to serve the chiropractic needs for many thousands of patients. I also bring to the plate a post-graduate teaching background and an equal number of years of experience having worked thousands of athletic events in eastern Oklahoma as the primary health care professional on site. Over the past six years, I have been teaching continuing education courses for re-licensure in several states. I teach and cover the conservative management of closed head injury and concussion management procedures as-well-as state specific sports safety compliance issues. I think my knowledge, effort and experience would be a great asset to everyone in our profession and especially to those of us with certification through the ACBSP. I will work diligently to serve the needs of the ACBSP and to you, as a certificate holder, if elected. Thank you for your consideration. Sincerely, K.G. Bradley, D.C., CCSP
